the OFFICIAL MAP to Lake St. Clair's Treasures

THE TOUR

For thousands of residents of Southeast Michigan and Southwest Ontario, Lake St. Clair is a secret waiting to be discovered. The new 2011 edition of the Lake St. Clair Circle the Lake Tour Map was created to connect the millions of residents in the region to the greatest experiences on and along the shores of this fresh water gem. Our new website, TourLakeStClair.com, does an even more extensive job and provides daily updates to what is going on and where.

This map provides a guided tour of the major destinations extending from the Blue Water Bridge to the Ambassador Bridge. It identifies the top destinations waiting to be explored and provides visitors with the ideal route for navigating the roads, ferries and international border crossings that are all part of the adventure. Please note that numbered destinations are organized starting from #1, Metro Beach Metropark, the top destination for public access, and running clockwise around the lake and river system.

While not as large as its cousins to the north (Lake Huron) or south (Lake Erie), Lake St. Clair still covers an area of 440 square miles and has more than 160 miles of shoreline – that is a lot of area to explore! The Circle the Lake Tour Map is your guide to navigating it all. And while it is possible to drive all of Lake St. Clair Tour in one day it would be a very rushed experience. The real goal is to provide you with a tool to explore all the lake has to offer but one or two destinations at a time. In this way, users can see it all but plan their trips based on geography, interest and time.

So get out by boat, car, RV, kayak, canoe or by foot and discover Lake St. Clair today...you'll discover it is a lake of many riches and great surprises!

BRIDGE TO BRIDGE

If you've looked at the map, you may ask why does the tour extend from the Blue Water Bridge in the north to the Ambassador Bridge in the south when neither sits directly on Lake St. Clair? The answer is that these two rivers and the lake are part of a larger fresh water community. Lake St. Clair is fed from Lake Huron at its north by the St. Clair River and is drained on its southwest end into Lake Erie by the Detroit River. In addition, both the northern and southern ends of the lake are anchored by the largest cities in this fresh water community, Port Huron/Sarnia and Detroit/Windsor. The Blue Water Bridge and the Ambassador Bridge serve as both the physical and symbolic gateways to Lake St. Clair and this larger freshwater community, as well as the link between the Canadian and United States shorelines. We encourage visitors to use this guide and our website to explore all the wonder of Lake St. Clair and the larger freshwater community.

TOP DESTINATIONS AND ATTRACTIONS

On any given day, Lake St. Clair is home to such pleasures as reeling in a trophy musky, kicking back at the beach, biking along the lake shore, taking a refreshing dip, savoring an awesome sunset over a romantic dinner – and so much more. On this lake of many riches, you can discover your own personal passions and pleasures. The Top Destinations and Attractions shown in this map represent the best experiences across a broad spectrum of interests. Some destinations will allow users to get out on the water while others allow visitors to enjoy the views and sounds from the shoreline. Either way, each of the top destinations has something special to offer and provides visitors a new window through which to see this fresh water community.

In addition to the top destinations and attractions, there are many other varied experiences that can be found while exploring the tour. Whether you're a family, a fisherman, an adventure junkie – or you're just looking for something new to do in the region, this guide will get you there. Learn where to charter a fishing boat or take a leisurely cruise, enjoy a coffee while watching the sunset over the lake, see the latest and greatest gear and boats, find where to grab some drinks with friends, learn which park to take the kids to...and you'll find much more on our website: TourLakeStClair.com.
